PROFESSIONAL INDEMNITY

Free collateral warranty review service

It's common practice for companies operating within the construction sector to enter contracts with third parties that extend their liability beyond what's expected under common law. Contracts such as collateral warranties, novation agreements and third-party rights clauses can expose them to a wider range of liabilities, which might not be covered by their professional indemnity insurance.

Outsourcing these documents to specialist consultants or solicitors for review can be costly. We can save your professional indemnity customers money with our free contract review service, ensuring that they aren't legally exposed or limiting their insurance cover.

Our legal partner, Clyde & Co, will review and provide advice on all your customers collateral warranties, novation agreements and third-party rights clauses within five working days of submission, limiting potential project delays. There's no limit to the number of contracts that can be submitted for review, although the five-day turnaround is per contract.
